

KING GEORGE CALLS FOR CONCILIATION AS HE OPENS ULSTER PARLIAMENT

Solution of Irish Problem Is One of Chief Desires of World and His Prayers, Now as in Past, Are That Factions May Cooperate as They Do in Rest of Empire—20,000 Guard Sovereigns.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Belfast, June 22.—"A new era is opening," King George told the Northern Ireland (Ulster) parliament today in a speech formally inaugurating this new lawmaking body. The speech breathed the ardent wish that the attempt to solve the Irish problem now being made through the new home rule bill would prove successful.

"For all who love Ireland as I do with all my heart this is a profoundly moving occasion in Irish history," said the king.

The king referred to the happy days he had spent in Ireland as a midshipman in the British navy while he was Prince of Wales.

"I have watched Ireland with constant sympathy ever since," continued George. "I could not have allowed myself to give Ireland by deputy alone my earnest prayers and good wishes for the new era which is now opening."

"Therefore I came in person as head of the empire to inaugurate this parliament and I came with deep belief. This is a great critical occasion in the history of the six counties—an occasion that touches Ireland as a whole and finds its place in the remotest parts of the empire."

(The six counties referred to by the king are those comprising Ulster province which is represented by the new parliament.)

The king expressed confidence that the important matters entrusted to the Northern Ireland parliament would be managed with wisdom, moderation and fairness and that due regard would be given to every faith and every interest.

Few things are more earnestly desired by the English speaking world than a satisfactory solution of the Irish problem, declared the king. He went on as follows:

"Certainly no wish is nearer my own heart than that every man of Irish birth, whatever his creed, wherever his home, should work with loyal co-operation with the free communities upon which the empire is built."

"My hopes are broader still. The eyes of the whole empire are upon Ireland today—that empire wherein many nations and races come together, despite ancient feuds and in which nations have come to birth in the life time of the youngest in this hall."

"I am emboldened by that thought to look beyond the sorrow and anxiety which have clouded of late my vision of Irish affairs. I speak with a full heart when I pray that my coming today may prove the first step towards the end of strife amongst her people, whatever the race, whatever the creed."

"The future lies in the hands of my Irish people themselves, both the north and south, either in one parliament or two, shall work together in common love for Ireland—and may they work upon the sure foundation of mutual justice and respect."

"In that hope I appeal to all Irishmen to pause and stretch out the hand of forbearance and conciliation; forget, forgive and join in making for the land which they all love a new era of peace, contentment and good will. It is my earnest desire that in Northern Ireland too, there may be long take place a parallel to what is passing here now in this hall and that there a similar occasion may present itself and a similar ceremony be performed."

The king re-embarked upon the royal yacht at four o'clock. Disturbances broke out in Northern Belfast and there was considerable firing of revolvers. Three arrests were made.

Belfast, June 22.—This city was an armed camp when King George and Queen Mary arrived here today to participate in the state opening of the new Northern Ireland (Ulster) parliament. It was the first time in sixteen years that King George had visited Belfast.

The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, escorted by a squadron of warships, came into the harbor in the gray dawn and immediately dropped anchor. The royal yacht was surrounded by a cordon of men or war vessels patrolled the bay and the waters outside.

Belfast has always been loyal to the royal family during the turbulent republican agitations in Ireland. It took pains today to show its loyalty. The British flag fluttered from windows, roof tops and roof poles. The houses were festooned with bunting. The pictures of the king and queen were everywhere.

Since the history of Ireland had such precautions been taken for the protection of royal guests. This day and the afternoon were crisscrossed with soldiers. The streets were patrolled with soldiers in uniform and secret service agents were on every hand.

Every yard of the route from the city hall to the state hall was lined with troops. The city hall was not outside temporarily as the meeting place of parliament was guarded by soldiers who stood shoulder to shoulder. There were more than 10,000 troops on the day and the police agents and secret service men supported for the occasion were stationed at many.

St. Andrew's and Dublin Castle were in their accustomed places.

and secret service men were gathered from all parts of the British Isles for duty here.

The arrival of the king and queen was heralded by the thunder of guns from the warships in the harbor.

The Victoria and Albert had made the trip across the Irish Sea from Holyhead without incident and in perfect safety. When the king and queen came ashore the royal salute went up from the cruisers and destroyers and the guns in the land batteries defending the harbor.

The royal yacht was taken to Donegal quay upon the morning tide. This wharf is in the heart of the city. The fog of the early morning gave way to mist and then a drizzle of rain. However, it brightened later. At 10 o'clock it was estimated that 10,000 persons were gathered along the route of the royal procession.

In addition to five regiments of troops, airplanes drifted back and forth above the city like great tireless birds.

Before the landing of the king and queen a delegation of Belfast citizens went on board the Victoria and Albert and greeted the king and queen in the name of Ulster Province and the city of Belfast. It had originally been intended that representatives of other parts of Ireland should go on board the royal yacht, but at the last minute the authorities decided it would be too dangerous and the plans were rearranged.

After the ceremonies on ship board during which there was hand shaking and a brief exchange of formalities, the king and queen went on board the Victoria and Albert and a cheer went up from the loyal citizens gathered on the water front.

Throughout the early hours, while the ceremonies were in progress on the deck of the royal yacht, the police and detectives had been busy rounding up suspected Sinn Feiners and completing the precautions for the safety of the royal couple. Everyone suspected of republican sympathies was excluded from the streets through which the royal party passed. The houses along the way were filled with policemen and soldiers. Picked troops occupied every strategic point. Even the roofs were patrolled. Every possible measure of safety was adopted to prevent any attempt to assassinate the sovereign.

The trip from the pier to the city hall was made in a state coach drawn by white horses. The king and queen glanced about them as they rode along as though they felt a great curiosity at being in Ireland, the land which has been Britain's chief seat of trouble and turbulence for so long. The people of the city, most of whom are loyalists and anti-home rulers cheered and waved flags and hats and handkerchiefs and George and Mary bowed and smiled in answer to these greetings.

The royal carriage was flanked by outriders, accompanied by police men and troops and watched by secret service men who covered every inch of the ground.

Altogether it was the biggest celebration Ireland has had in a hundred years and Belfast made most of this opportunity to show her resentment against Sinn Feiners. Up to the time this dispatch was written the republicans had not attempted any hostile demonstration. There were grumblings, however, and muttered threats that the king's visit "would have an aftermath." It was pointed out that this was the first time since the days of George third that a king of England has intervened personally in politics.

It had been reported in London that the Sinn Feiners might take advantage of the presence of King George in Ireland to make direct appeals to him. This was not done.

Find a Mastodon's Bone.
For the third time in recent years, the remains of a mastodon—a prehistoric animal resembling the elephant, but much larger, have been found in a nearby section. The latest find has been made on the track farm of Anthony Fichera, formerly a part of the Thomas Flynn farm, situated perhaps midway between Vails Gate and Washington Lake, near Newburgh, a considerable distance back from the Little Britain state road.

Donors Have New Pickers.
The donors of the south end Albany have signed Larry Contino, formerly of the Union Box and Garment Co., according to an announcement made by Booking Manager Freddie Dunn. Contino will share the pitching honors with Stenon. Saturday the donors will play the Colonials at Athletic Field. Sunday they will meet the Valley Falls club at Albany.

Buy Line Coal Pockets.
Work was begun Tuesday on repairs to the old Bell's dock, near the Amherst and Kent property in the North End, Newburgh, and it is expected the property is to be opened later, which will provide a dock there for its boats and will also serve as a pocket for the accommodation of 25,000 tons of coal for the vessels of the company.

BRITISH LABOR WANTS TO SCRAP PEACE TREATY

Establishment of a Diplomatic Corps for Labor Party in United Kingdom Which Should Appoint Special Commissioners to Keep in Touch With Labor Movements in All Other Countries Is Proposed at Brighton Conference.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, June 22.—"That in the opinion of the conference the time has come for the party to build up its own diplomatic service, and by means of special commissioners be able to keep in constant touch with similar movements in all other countries."

The above resolution, presented at the annual conference of the Labor Party, in its second day's session today, strikingly illustrates the international outlook of the post-war labor movement.

"That the conference hereby instructs the National Executive to take the opinion of all affiliated organizations upon the desirability of creating a large fighting fund for parliamentary contests," another proposal which has been forwarded, reveals the Labor Party growing toward old line party methods in its campaign for domestic political power.

The two themes run through the deliberations of the national conference.

The party is again confronted with the problem of its "foreign relations." It has dissociated itself from the Moscow International. But sections of the party during the present conference are endeavoring to force a reconsideration of this, while yet another faction is demanding that the Labor Party secede from the Second International.

Further, on the international side, the conference is confronted with resolutions demanding:

That reparations be submitted to a commission of neutral states.

That reparations be settled by a League of Nations Commission.

That the party fight the government until the Treaty of Versailles is scrapped.

That Labor members of Parliament be condemned for cowardice in not fighting the government on the indemnity policy of "an iniquitous treaty."

That Britain start immediately a gradual withdrawal from its subject colonies, virtually dismembering the Empire.

Various proposals, all sympathetic to the republican movement, are put forward for settlement of the Irish question. The keynote of the majority of these is withdrawal of Crown forces from Ireland.

On the domestic crisis of unemployment the Independent Labor Party proposes that the conference "condemn the indifference and negligence of the government in dealing with this acute problem and declares that the government in this, as in other matters, has forfeited the confidence of the country." The resolution, further, "calls upon the state immediately to organize national works of reconstruction upon an extensive scale, such as housing, the construction of necessary public buildings, schools and roads, schemes of afforestation, of electrical development and of transport," and to "organize production and distribution to supply social needs."

The Brighton and Hove Labor Party is seeking the approval of a general declaration of principles which declares that the right to live is the inalienable right of every citizen, that possession of adequate food, clothing, shelter and all other necessary things is therefore the birthright of every citizen. "Independent of the performance of work, which is, however, a duty devolving on all who are capable of performing it."

Glasgow Labor declares the only permanent solution of unemployment is "the complete reorganization of industry on a democratic basis."

Among other demands which are being presented for the approval of the national body are the following:

That the land of Great Britain shall be deemed to be the property of the people.

Naturalization of the mining industry.

Reorganization of agriculture.

Free trade between nations.

Ensure the right of free speech.

Release all political prisoners.

Repeal of the Emergency Powers Act, which gives the government virtual martial law powers in time of industrial upheaval.

Public ownership of the liquor trade.

Increase educational opportunities.

Health and industrial insurance and old age pensions.

Workers' pension.

Proportional representation.

It is probable that after all the issues which various bodies are raising have been discussed and the official resolutions of the Labor Party have been passed, a recapitulation of the party's platform will be authorized. Such a task of codification of Labor's aims would give the party a book of campaign material similar to those issued for guidance of party workers by the Republican and Democratic parties during Presidential years in America.

TODAY REGATTA DAY ON RIVER

Usual Pre-Race Scenes at Poughkeepsie—Navy, California and Syracuse Look Best in Big Event.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22.—Three crews stood out as strong contenders today as the country's stellar college oarsmen prepared for the rowing of the classic Poughkeepsie regatta on the Hudson late this afternoon.

The Navy, California and Columbia were favored to fight it out for a victory that promised to be hard won, and from the showing these crews have made in practice sprints over the three mile distance—promise to be a record breaker.

Cornell, Syracuse and Pennsylvania, the other trio in the big varsity event, have shown great improvement since coming to Poughkeepsie to prepare for today's regatta and any one of them might furnish a surprise.

The program of races today included three events, the freshman, junior varsity and varsity races. The big race was scheduled to start at 7 o'clock daylight saving time, with the crews rowing down stream.

Poughkeepsie experienced her usual pre-regatta night of hysteria last night. The town is filled with students from the various colleges, and they demonstrated their spirit by staying up as late as possible. The races this afternoon will be witnessed by an unusually large crowd for the return to Poughkeepsie after an absence of the crews since 1916, attracted hungry rowing fans from all parts of the east. Observation trains on both shores of the Hudson were scheduled to carry the crowds.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22.—Six brawny varsity rowing crews will line up on the broad bosom of the Hudson at sundown this afternoon for the twenty-third renewal of the classic Poughkeepsie regatta, America's blue ribbon rowing event since 1900.

As usual the field of entrants is dominated by eastern crews, with Columbia, Cornell, Penn., Syracuse and the Navy entered. California is the sixth starter and the first western crew to row in the regatta since 1916, when Leland Stanford's plucky oarsmen finished second to Cornell in one of the greatest races in the history of the event.

The regatta will consist of three races—freshman, junior varsity and varsity events. California and the Navy will row in the varsity race only. All races will be rowed under the experienced eye of Julian W. Curtis, who will be the referee.

The regatta will be rowed on the eastern daylight saving time schedule with the freshman crews of Columbia, Cornell, Penn and Syracuse pulling to the starting line at 5:15 o'clock. The junior varsity crews will start their race at 6 o'clock and the varsity event will start at 7 p. m.

Each of the six varsity crews in the big race have been especially pointed for today's event, which gave promise of developing one of the greatest battles of the sweeps ever witnessed in this country.

The varsity race will be over the three-mile distance. In advance of the contest the Navy, Cornell and Columbia were believed to have something in the way of an advantage at this distance, though the California and Syracuse eights are composed of sturdy oarsmen who appear capable of holding their own with any crew in the country over any distance. The Navy crew, with two exceptions composed of the same oarsmen who won the national and international championship in 1920, is especially dangerous in a long race.

Today's race marks the return to Poughkeepsie after a lapse of four years. Because of the world war the regatta was abandoned in 1917, '18 and '19, while in 1920, because the stewards were unable to arrange for an observation train here, the race was transferred to Lake Cayuga, at Ithaca, where Syracuse scored her fifth victory in fourteen years of competition.

Today also marked the second time that a Navy crew has entered the event. In 1906 the Middies entered and finished third to Cornell and Columbia.

Upon the sun-burned shoulders of California's oarsmen rested the burden of wrestling the first victory of a western crew from eastern rivals. Incidentally this crew is the first California eight to row in the event.

In past years Wisconsin, Washington and Leland Stanford have attempted to capture the regatta, but on only two occasions did the west come close. In 1912, when Wisconsin finished second, and in 1915, when Leland Stanford's game oarsmen came from behind and defeated Cornell in a battle royal that will never be forgotten by devotees of the sport.

Cornell's crews have scored thirteen victories out of twenty-three races. Syracuse has won the event five times, Penn three times and Columbia once.

The revival of enthusiasm over rowing and the return of the classic regatta to Poughkeepsie today lured thousands of spectators to this picturesque town. The regatta drew, and provided for a large crowd by attracting with the West Shore Railroad for an extra long observation train.

The records of the Poughkeepsie regatta since its inception follow:

SIMS COMES AND GOES QUIETLY

Big Guard Keeps Public From Close Approach When Admiral Arrives on Olympic and Leaves for Washington—Only Fighting Is Between Members of Crews.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 22.—Wearing civilian clothes featured by a soft green hat, Admiral William Snowden Sims, apparently in a cheerful, confident mood and in the best of health, arrived on the liner Olympic today and, without any demonstration of hostility and but a few of friendship marking his arrival, proceeded immediately by automobile to the Pennsylvania station to take the train for Washington at 11:03.

The only statement he made here indicated that he has no fear of having his distinguished naval career abruptly ended as a result of his "jackass speech" in London which brought about his recall by Secretary of the Navy Denby.

"After seeing the secretary of the navy," he said just before his train was due to depart, "I expect to go to Newport to resume my duties as president of the war college."

Earlier, when coming up the bay, he had declined to make any statement on his now famous anti-Sinn Fein utterances and their consequences, though he said he expected to have a statement to make after he had seen Secretary Denby. In that forthright statement, he added, he would cover the whole subject thoroughly.

New York, June 22.—Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., who was recalled from England by Secretary of the Navy Denby because of a sensational speech on political matters, arrived today on the White Star liner Olympic.

The admiral's arrival and the automobile ride from the pier to Pennsylvania station, where he was to leave for Washington at 11:03, was marked by no untoward incident. Nor was there any demonstration except for occasional greeting shouted by individual spectators, sometimes joined by a few other husky throats. The only "send off" the admiral got was at the railroad station where a porter yelled "three cheers for Sims," and a score or so others took up the shout.

Extraordinary police precautions were made to protect the admiral from hostile demonstration on the part of Sinn Feiners. Measures virtually as drastic as those taken to guard the life of President Wilson when he went abroad and came home, were in effect.

West street, the street flanking North river where the White Star line has its quay was cleared of all persons between 18th street and 23rd street. More than 1,000 policemen were on duty as well as many detectives. Two platoons of mounted police slowly patrolled back and forth before the pier and kept the side streets clear. Other policemen on motorcycles scurried back and forth. No one except persons holding specially issued passes was allowed to approach the dock.

An official reception was tendered to the admiral by a group of naval officers headed by Rear Admiral Hulse, commandant of the Third Naval District.

Admiral Sims did not seem disturbed over the outlook. He looked cheerful and was in the best of health. He chatted with friends and shook hands. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sims. Passengers on the Olympic said that the admiral did not have much to say on the voyage across, but was unperturbed.

Thousands of persons gathered along the waterfront to get a glimpse of the admiral, but they were held back to the side streets and to the parts of West street north of 23rd and south of 18th. The crowd was made up of both enemies and admirers of the admiral.

When the word flashed through the crowd that the Olympic was in, some began to cheer for Sims and others began to hiss. The depth of feeling was shown by a number of arguments which eventually led to blows.

The admiral had fairly pleasant weather for his arrival. It was humid with hot sunshine but a fair breeze blew off the water.

Police boats had been held in readiness in case Sinn Feiner sympathizers might attempt a demonstration down the bay, but they were not needed. The police arrangement at the pier were directed by Police Commissioner Enright but were in charge of 2 police inspectors, four captains and 20 sergeants. Another police inspector and 200 men were at the Pennsylvania railroad station where the admiral was expected to take a train for Washington later in the day.

The admiral's brother was among the friends gathered at the pier. He is Albert V. Sims, a civil engineer with offices in this city.

AMERICANS WIN BIG POLO TROPHY

Milburn's Dashing Game Evidenced by Best of Team and Second Victory Over Britons Results With 10-6 Score.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Burlingham, England, June 22.—America's great polo team lifted the famous international cup by defeating the British team 10 to 6 here today in the second match of the series which was for the best two in three.

Captain Brewster Milburn and his dashing players won the right to carry the cup back to America in the promise of the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a polo match in the British Isles. The Prince of Wales was a distinguished spectator and the nobility turned out in force.

Captain Milburn, recovered from the injuries he had taken that threatened to keep him out of last week's match, was the inspiration to his team again today. He started in a whirlwind style and seemingly taking the cue from him, the American team rode to victory after a first start of three goals to nothing in the first half.

Burlingham, England, June 22.—The greatest crowd that ever assembled for a polo match in this country was on hand for today's game.

FINANCIAL SUICIDE.

Figuratively Twists at End of Rope
Same as John Jones Did.

When the hired man goes out to the barn some morning and finds John Jones in the hay mow, away and twisting gently at the end of a long, strong rope, about the first thing he does after he has cut the body down is to hotly the owner.

The coroner, having viewed the remains and remarked that John is as dead as Connie Mack's chances to win the American League pennant, calls in a bunch of his cronies who need the money, empanels a jury and holds an inquest. It is not long until the jury shifts its chair of tobacco and announces that John Jones came to his death by his own hand. The neighbors say: "Well, it's a pity John didn't have the nerve to fight his troubles instead of ducking them," and J. Jones is forgotten.

Not all killing is murder but death by one's own hand is not only prohibited by law but is regarded almost universally as the subterfuge of a coward to avoid facing the future. Killing your own chances in life is financial suicide. Men who would scorn to end their lives no matter what their difficulties and financial careers and do it with their own hands through failure to put aside a surplus both to seize opportunities which are daily occurrences in American life and to meet emergencies and disasters.

When such men are found twisting at the end of their financial rope, the only verdict a jury of their peers can bring in is: "Financial suicide." The putting aside of such a surplus has been made both convenient and easy through the issue of small denomination government securities. The treasury savings stamps and treasury savings certificates are specially adapted for the saving and safeguarding of money and money so placed will be safe and will return a sure and adequate profit.

Ready Tax Law Is Jail.

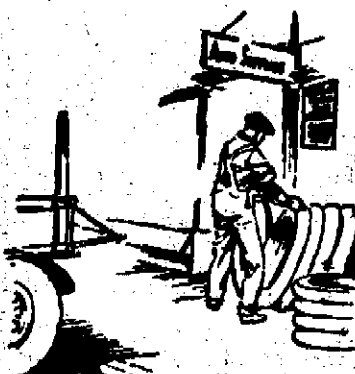

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, June 22.—That Sing Sing contains men who are ambitious and eager to better themselves during their spare time, is indicated from a letter received today by Walter W. Law, Jr., president of the state tax commission, from Father W. E. Caska, chaplain of Sing Sing. Father Caska wrote that "Some of the men here in their free time are taking courses in accounting and they would like to become familiar with the law relating to income taxation. I am presenting the matter to you in the hope that if possible, copies of the law covering the state income tax be forwarded to me for the prison library. Both the men and myself will appreciate any assistance you can give us." President Law gave instructions for the prompt mailing to Father Caska of copies of the law and other state income tax data of value to this unique accounting class.

Roundout Wins By Big Score.
Roundout, June 22.—The Roundout baseball team defeated the Roundout team from Kingston at Roundout Sunday by the score of 13 to 1. The game started well, neither side scoring in the first three innings, but the Roundout players soon overcame the Kingston's speed ball, while the Roundout boys found Doyle and slugged the ball all over the field. Doyle received four supports from the field while the Roundout's fielding was practically errorless. Roundout plays Ridge Falls next Sunday.

THE U. S. USCO TREAD

Here is the U. S. Usco Tread, with a long-established standard of service among motorists who have an eye to value, as well as to price. While selling for less than the other tires in the U. S. Fabric line, the Usco has earned a reputation for quality and dependable economy which is not exceeded by any tire in its class.

"Fresh, too U. S. Tires come direct to the dealer from his neighboring Factory Branch."

Which one of your neighbors gets the best mileage out of his tires?

EVERY once in a while you hear a motorist say as he kicks a rear tire with an admiring foot, "there's a lucky tire!" Give him a chance and he'll tell you all about it. And then you'll find that what he calls "luck" is simply his first experience with a quality standard tire.

It all comes to this—buy a U. S. Tire anywhere in this country and you get definite, predictable value for your money no matter what weight car you drive.

The man who has been guessing his way through "overstocks," "discontinued lines," "job lots" and the like, will find it refreshing to talk with the local U. S. Tire dealer who is concentrating on a full, completely sized line of U. S. Tires.

For the first time he will hear some straight quality tire facts—and get the difference between chance and certainty in tire buying.

The U. S. Tires he sees in stock are fresh, live tires. They come direct to the dealer from his neighboring Factory Branch.

There are 92 of these Branches established and maintained by the U. S. Tire makers.

Giving your dealer a continuous moving stock of new, fresh tires built on the certainty of quality first every time.

"The best experience with U. S. quality standard tires."

LIGHT HAY BALES.

Violations Here Are to Be Reported
—to a Misdemeanor.

Complaint has been made to Commissioner Eugene H. Porter that baled hay is being shipped to the New York city market which is not properly marked as to its weight. Section 255 of Article 15 of the laws and markets law requires that "Weight to be marked on bale. The gross weight shall be plainly marked on each bale of hay or straw sold or offered for sale in this state; and no baled hay or straw shall be sold or offered for sale which weighs less than such gross weight after deducting five pounds from such bale for shrinkage. And no baled hay or straw shall be sold or offered for sale with more than twenty pounds of wood to the bale, the weight of which is two hundred pounds or upwards, or more than ten pounds of wood for bales weighing less than two hundred pounds."

The size of the tag used in marking hay and straw cannot be less than 1 1/2 inches wide and 2 inches long. This tag must bear the name and business address of the presser, together with the correct weight of the bale and must be securely fastened to the bale. The pressers must also provide themselves with accurate scales which must be presented to their local sealer to be properly tested. A person violating this law is guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to a fine when found guilty.

W. T. White, director of the bureau of weights and measures, has instructed William Morie, sealer of weights and measures, to report all violations and irregularities to his office in order that careless pressers may be taught to respect the weights and measures law.

Mention Auto Salvage.
The Eagle Garage on Main street has just installed a Holman trucker which will be used in answer calls to bring in the garage wrecked auto. KINGSTON, N. Y., JUNE 22, 1921.

There seems to be a growing opinion that the public is entitled to some consideration when industrial arguments are in order. While there can be differences of opinion between employer and employee the public should not be forced to submit to inconvenience or suffer because of some disagreement between individuals. There is no question whatever that the public has been long suffering and merciful but there apparently is a limit to all things.

President Harding is not permitting himself to be drawn into arguments with those who have a habit of distorting a man's words and trying to make him say something which he never uttered or even inferred. The President is trying to be the president of the whole people and has no time to waste words with those who have nothing more to keep them busy than to talk. The purpose of the occupant of the White House is to do all he can to get things back to normal and he is having marked success.

One of the well known hotel men recently said that the pendulum seemed to be swinging back toward the old tavern idea when the guest expected to be greeted by the bonfire when he arrived and not forgotten when he left. The reason for this is, perhaps, that we are getting a little bit more human than we were for a while and not giving quite so much thought to the "get the money" idea. Another idea he voiced was that while the hotel is not legally a public utility it is morally such as its success depends wholly upon the public.

Governor Miller contends that if the Governor has to work all summer there is no reason why judicial officers should not put in a little extra time if needed. That was why he urged special sittings so that the constitutionality of the bonus act could be determined.

No penalty is severe enough for the individual who would by crooked means deprive any veteran of any part of his bonus. The warning given out that there were those busy manipulating in such a manner as to relieve the veterans of part of their bonus will put a check on the unscrupulous. The bonus commission jumped on this practice early.

FOR WHAT?

For some reason not yet disclosed, Democrats, a few of them, held a meeting at Syracuse. They talked and had nothing to say, that is, constructively, but they came away with the understanding that another conference would be called later at which something definite would be done. Just what they have in mind was not made known, but what they did was negative and in keeping with the Democratic idea of state-manship. Summed up, some of them apparently had an idea that the people had no use for economy or intelligent administration of public affairs.

More interesting than anything else, however, was the fact that the conference was called primarily to get the up-state leaders together to adopt a program without permitting Tammany to have a hand in it in any way whatsoever. This occurs quite frequently, eliminating Tammany from the councils, but as usual Tammany had its hand on the situation every minute and practically dictated everything that was done. There was nothing done, of course, but it was Tammany's purpose not to allow anything to be done until Tammany is ready.

There was some talk of candidates, but even this was not allowed to shape itself definitely. The up-state representatives went to Syracuse, according to the call, to take early action on what should be done for the future. The up-state leaders were not side-tracked by what Tammany thought, but when the conference adjourned nothing had been accomplished. To those who have paid any attention to Tammany practices it was apparent that the up-state had no objection to the conference as long as nothing was done. This was the only object Tammany had in being recorded as present.

However, the conference was held and some up-state Democrats got their names in the papers. Some of them were fortunate in this respect and their attendance was due unquestionably to the forlorn hope that some day they may not only get their names in the papers but get them on the state pay roll. This is what counts for more than anything in the eyes of the professional Democrat and the Democratic party is not without a substantial quota of those who fit the title "professional." But while the Democrats were talking the sane-thinking and sober-minded people were giving thought to the work of the Miller administration and applauding what had been done economically and intelligently.

KILL WEST SHORE CENTRAL'S AIM

Passenger Traffic Diverted to East Side of River—West Shore For Freight Carrying Only, Says Cornwall Press.

The Cornwall Press, of which Crewell MacLaughlin is editor and general manager, has this to say regarding the turning of the West Shore railroad into a road for freight only:

Men connected with the New York Central system admit that it has been the intention to destroy the passenger service of the West Shore road and divert it exclusively to the New York Central lines. It would seem that the West Shore will finally become nothing but a freight service. The traffic now in freight cars is very heavy. The New York Central has always discouraged the west side of the Hudson river and has devoted all of its energies in development and in publicity to the east side of the river.

The representative civic bodies of this side of the river may not understand these facts, and if they do they have been, thus far, powerless in any effort that they may have undertaken to build up the resident districts of the west shore.

There are those who believe that the delay in the construction of the Storm King road may be traced to the activities of New York Central lobbyists in Albany.

Today there are very few trains from New York to Albany over the West Shore road and were it not for the excellent summer service of the Ontario & Western, Cornwall would be practically cut off the map as a first-class railroad station. Railroad service is one of the most important things essential in the building up of a community and if the West Shore railroad finally becomes nothing but a heavy freight road, many advantages rightly belonging to the people will be abrogated.

There are only two fast trains now from New York to Cornwall running over the West Shore. All the good trains north and south are now provided by the Ontario road. All the brains may not be on the east side of the Hudson but most of the activity and influence seems to be over there. Year after year a deliberate program has been operated against the people of the west side of the Hudson and this plan has been executed by the New York Central system.

There is no question of doubt whatever but that the West Shore railroad can be rescued from the grip of the Central and compelled to provide adequate passenger facilities for the people living on the western banks. A railroad corporation has no right to destroy a rival road by absorbing it and then putting it out of business. The future of the west side of the Hudson river will largely depend upon the kind of railroad facilities offered to the population. If the west side is to become nothing but a way-freight, its effect upon the communities will be demoralizing. It will give to the west shore of the Hudson a "one-horse" reputation and people who should have a chance to travel over a first-class railroad will be forced to use the New York Central with all its drawbacks or stay home and this will paralyze many important chances for development.

Always Something New.
 When we attend the movies, which we do regularly, we always wait anxiously for the news reel or topical review. We don't have much time to read the newspapers, and we like to keep track of what is going on in the world. While some other features on the average movie show may not hold us entranced, we are always sure of something new, and we are certain to see the vital episodes of the world's news dished up, hot off the griddle. And the best part of it is we are never disappointed. We know exactly what we are going to see. We saw our favorite news reel yesterday, and it ran exactly as follows:

Wellesley college girls rolling hoops.
 Canoeing on Bay of Copenhagen.
 Battleship passing under Brooklyn bridge.

Count De Kay arriving from Europe.
 Secretary of the navy looking through portfolio of battleship.
 Living American flag made by Squawucket school children.

Muskies at play.

 Launching of freighter Chekophanah at Seattle.

Close up of Miss Euphemia Mudge, who christened boat.
 Drill of students at Hukum Military Academy.

Fire in Bone Collar Button Works at Hoopdale, Ind.
 Miniature sailboats on lake in Central Park.

 Some years ago I loved a maid,
 Ne'er had Ma Eve a fairer daughter.

An ardent court to her I paid:
 To be my wife I oft besought her.

But when I begged her to be my own,
 She frowned upon my ardent wooing.

Yes, she fopped me in a matter prone,
 And told me there was nothing doing!

She's nearly 40 now and fat,
 Her truth to another's plighted.

And fain would I inform her that
 If she is happy, I'm delighted!

LARGEST SHIP SOON OPERATING

Thank Greyhound of the Sea to Out-rank Leviathan by 2,000 Tons—To Carry 3,536 Passengers—Was launched in 1914 by Germany as the "Bismarck"—The Teutonic Master Effort for Maritime Supremacy.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, June 22.—The world's largest ship, the Majestic, will soon be operating between this port and Southampton, England, according to announcement made here recently by the international Mercantile Marine Company. The Titanic sea palace is now being completed at Hamburg, Germany. Fifty times as large as any of the packet ships that laid the foundation of trans-Atlantic travel a century ago, the Majestic, registering 56,000 tons, will make its maiden trip in the early part of 1922. The tonnage of this one ship nearly equals that of all the 132 vessels that formed the famed Spanish armada. Designed as the pride of the German merchant marine and launched in 1914 for the purpose of eclipsing the great ocean greyhounds under the flags of rival nations, this huge ship was christened by the then kaiser and was named for Bismarck. But for the war she would have been commissioned in 1915, the last word in luxurious transportation and a powerful factor in Germany's program for maritime supremacy. As the war progressed announcements were made from time to time that the then kaiser had ordered the big ship to be ready for service the day peace was won by the Germans. The armistice found the ship no further completed than when launched. The peace treaty provided that the Germans should complete the vessel as designed and turn her over to the reparations commission. The commission has already taken over the ship and has sold her to the White Star Line, which is owned by Americans. Work on the big ship is reported to be progressing satisfactorily at Hamburg and, barring interruptions, the ship will be ready for delivery in 1922. The Majestic is built on lines similar to those of the Leviathan, which is second to her in size, the latter being 2,000 tons smaller. The Leviathan, now under the American flag, has lain at Hoboken for the last eighteen months awaiting official action by the United States Shipping Board as to her disposal. The Majestic's dimensions are: Length over all, 956 feet; breadth, 100 feet; draft, 40 feet. The ship will have capacity for 3,536 passengers, with 1,000 in first cabin alone, and will carry a crew of 1,200. She will be equipped to burn fuel oil and will have tank capacity for about 9,500 tons, or more than enough to feed her fires for a round voyage. Her engines are turbines, with four screws. The ship will be equipped with a ball room, a theater, a winter garden, a restaurant, a Roman swimming bath, a gymnasium, a tennis court, a conservatory and kennels.

The Most Acceptable Wedding Gift

There is no worthier gift for the bride than The Brunswick. Nothing is so certain to bring cheer into her new home. Its grace and beauty of design and its matchless tone have made it a standard by which to judge all phonographs.

The Brunswick Method of Tone Reproduction caused a sensation in musical circles. It has revolutionized tone reproduction and projection. Harsh, metallic sounds have been eliminated; all records, regardless of make, can be played with a new quality of tone on The Brunswick.

We shall be glad to play this great instrument for you to demonstrate the Ukona all record reproducer and the new all-wood Tone Amplifier. One hearing will convince you this is the final-type phonograph.

Carl F. Egge, of Minneapolis, who has been appointed general superintendent of the air mail service, with headquarters in the Post Office Department at Washington, to succeed Major E. C. Zolle, resigned. He takes office following the first week in the history of the air mail service, in which a 100 per cent efficiency service was rendered by the air planes. During a recent week air mail planes of the department flew 50,000 miles without a forced landing, breaking all past records. The planes covered the New York to San Francisco route and the route between Minneapolis and St. Louis. Mr. Egge has been with the Postal Service thirty years and has been superintendent of the air mail service in Minneapolis.

Working Up a Climax.

A woman traveler in the South tells about a sight-seeing tour which she made in a New Orleans auto-bus. "The car was full of tourists, and the guard shouted with a strong voice through a megaphone. Nothing of his intonings remains in my memory except his reply to a tourist who asked, as we entered one of the beautiful cemeteries, what the four figures kneeling at the corners at the base of a tall marble shaft represented. He answered: 'That monument was erected by Mr. Moriarity. And the four figures represent Faith, Hope and Charity, and Mrs. Moriarity.'"

Ass Frequently Mentioned in Bible.

The most famous dialogue in all history is that recorded in the sixteenth chapter of Numbers, between the ass and Balaam. As will be remembered, the ass had much the better of the argument. All through the Bible one finds frequent mention of the ass, which at the present time in Palestine, and the Near East generally, still plays as anciently it did, an important part in the life of the people, who take much pains in breeding the animal and rearing the young.

GOOD YEAR

GAMBLERS FOILED FOR THE MOMENT

Scores of individuals in this city who have to date the "whimsies" with the game of chance are now, and very soon at that, because the New York Clearing House refuses to assist them any longer in one of their joys. For some time these individuals have been buying tickets in a commercial pool, when not playing in a handball pool, the winner of the commercial pool being the one holding the ticket bearing the last four numbers of the Clearing House exchanges. These figures are published daily in the New York evening papers and the holders of tickets in the pool or lottery could hardly wait for the papers to arrive each evening. In that way buyers of tickets were satisfied there was no collection. About a week ago, however, the holders of the commercial pool tickets depending upon the published four figures had a shock. The Clearing House authorities in New York had decided something should be done. The last three figures printed were zeros, as like to one another as only zeros can be, and they have been zeros ever since. Now it is said that the organizers of the commercial pool have decided to "touch last" and will make the first four figures the winning number instead of the last four as heretofore, three of which are now zeros.

W. J. Gilpin, manager of the New York Clearing House, said on Tuesday, "Our reason for ceasing to publish the last three figures and substituting zeros was to discourage the use of the Clearing House figures for gambling purposes. The last three figures are not important anyway, when it is considered that the total exchanges amount to the hundreds of millions daily. The exact figures don't mean the hundreds and tens are of no use to any one but gamblers. The only persons who desired any benefit from them were the gamblers. We were constantly annoyed by people phoning and calling to ascertain the last four numbers before they were published. These figures are eliminated now and the totals are in even thousands."

Get a Curious Animal.

The skin of a bat is a most wonderful instance of adaptation to a special end, for it is nothing but a specially modified forelimb or hand. The elongated bones serve, like the ribs of an umbrella, to keep the skin stretched and taut when the animal is in flight. When the bat alights it doubles up its "hand," the skin falls in wrinkles, folds, and using its thumb joints as fulcrum it is able to run along as quickly as a mouse. The skin of the wings are only joined to the hand limbs, but extend from them to the tail, thus making the rudder with which the bat can steer when flying and, when the tail is brought up beneath the wings, forms a fan or parachute, which is of use to the animal.

The Joy of Living.

I have never had much money, but I have always enjoyed the things at hand. I have become so familiar with the face of Nature that it is as the face of an old friend and I know and love it in every mood. My years have been full of joy, but they have been years of simplicity and economy. I have never said myself with anything and the bloom is still on my life. I have kept young because I have kept free from worldly and selfish ambitions. If I had been ambitious and grasping, I would have been old and unhappy long ago. There is nothing like love to keep you young—love for your fellow men and for Nature and love is Nature's first law. Someone once asked me how I had kept so young and I answered that I had been born young and had never thrown my youth away.—John Burroughs.

SARATOGA READY FOR AUTO ASS'N

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., June 22.—All plans for the big gathering of automobilists at the mid-summer meeting of the New York State Automobile Association at Saratoga Springs, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 12th and 13th have been completed for a most important and enjoyable convention. The State Automobile Association is now made up of 135 local clubs representing practically every locality in the state.

Among the more important business of the season which will be called to order by President Hague of Utica, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, July 12th, in the Grand Union Hotel, will be the report of the law and legislative committee, the work of which committee resulted in saving many dollars to the automobile owners of the state during the last session of the legislature, and the continued effort of the association which has extended through several years to have every driver of an automobile licensed in order to identify every man and woman at the wheel of an automobile and thus prevent the free hand of thieves as well as to be able to single out the incompetent and reckless operators and prevent as far as possible the shockingly growing increase in the sacrifice of human life on our streets and highways through the free and easy manner in which nearly 1,000,000 automobiles are being operated in this state today.

Officials of the State Automobile Association state that the matter of the growing death toll from the incompetent and reckless operation of motor vehicles which reached a total of 1,471 lives during 1920 and 519 lives for the five months ending May 31st, this year, is undoubtedly responsible for the large increase in the number of so-called "speed traps" in this state.

Herbert W. Baker, secretary of the State Automobile Association, said that the association would continue its efforts to have every operator of an automobile licensed and placed on record, and would also endeavor to limit the minimum age to 18. Mr. Baker also stated that the responsibility for the continued sacrifice of life through the incompetent and reckless operation of automobiles must be placed squarely upon the leaders of the legislature. They have been told year after year, for the past several years, of the growing menace and of the lack of restraint of operators in this state and the incidental growing death toll, but it seems these leaders have been more anxious to increase automobile fees and provide additional political positions than to manifest any interest in efforts to save human life. The principal objection to such regulation was that an operator's license would cost some farmers four or five dollars to license their children, but nothing was said or considered of the safety of these same children in having every other driver licensed and under some restraint.

The two big social events of the meeting will take place at the banquet at the Grand Union Hotel, Tuesday evening, July 12th, and the reception at the new McGregor Golf Club, Wednesday afternoon, 13th.

Prominent speakers and invited guests include Governor Miller, Highway Commissioner Sisson, Major George F. Chandler, superintendent State Police, Bert K. Lord, director of the automobile bureau, Senator Hewitt, chairman of the finance committee, Senator Lowman, chairman internal affairs committee, George F. Wheelock, Speaker Machold, Senator Lusk, Assemblyman Stitt, Mrs. Charles Baker, president Woman's National Automobile Association, representatives of Canadian automobile associations and other prominent persons interested in the automobile world who are directing their efforts toward the economical, safe and sane operation of automobiles, the conservation of human life and promotion and maintenance of good roads.

What do you know about Nature subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper. Look for answers in this column.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Do fishes shed their scales?
2. How do plants breathe?
3. Why does a robin look for worms toward evening?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Are yellow jackets or hornets or wasps classed as bees?

No, although they are members of the general order, Hymenoptera, in which bees belong. These insects are characterized by four membranous wings, the hinder pair being the smaller; and mouth parts adapted for biting, sucking, or lapping. The females usually have an ovipositor or sting.

2. Is it true that alligators cannot bite your arm or leg off, but roll over and over till they tear the limb off?

The alligator has powerful jaws and strong teeth, and could easily crush human bones if it snapped through a limb. But the alligator swallows its prey whole, usually, taking fish, birds, and small mammals. If it gets prey too big to take at a gulp, it sometimes does shake its victim violently for the purpose of tearing it to smaller pieces. Possibly this fact may account for the notion of its "rolling over and over."

3. What is the sugar bird? Please describe color and habits?

Probably the hummingbird is meant by this, since it feeds a good deal on the nectar found in tubular flowers, like nasturtiums. It eats also the tiny insects that are attracted to the sweet liquid of the blossoms. East of the Mississippi there is only one hummer, the ruby throat, but on the Pacific slopes there are over a dozen varieties. They are metallic, with beautiful marks of ruby, blue, etc., usually on the throat.

Please let me know what kind of wood live oak is and where it grows. And let me know who or what the city of Kingston is named after.

Yours truly, PETER DOOLEY.

Live oak is an evergreen tree 50 or 60 feet high growing along the Atlantic coast from Virginia to Texas. Its wood is hard and fine grained and of great economic value, especially for shipbuilding.

When the province of New Netherlands was surrendered by the Dutch to the English in 1664 the English changed the name of Wildewijk to Kingston (now this city) presumably after the Kingston in England.

FIREMEN MARCH

ON THURSDAY

Weather conditions being favorable several hundred men and women from Kingston will be in Poughkeepsie Thursday and witness the parade of the firemen in connection with the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association, to be held that afternoon. Three organizations will go from this city, being Excelsior Hose Company, No. 4, Union Hose Company, and Cornell Hose Company. The Excelsiors will have 85 men on the ropes and will be accompanied by the Citizens' brass band of 30 pieces. Union Hose Company will also have a large number in line and will be headed by the Glasco brass band of 30 pieces. Cornell Hose Company will go by a steam tug and will be accompanied by the Walden Fife, Drum and Bugle Corps. The Excelsior Hose Company will go by special cars over the West Shore Railroad, and the carriage was loaded this afternoon on a car so that all will be in readiness for the start Thursday morning. All the members are requested to be at the headquarters on Hurley avenue at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow preparatory to marching to the Union Station. The company will be at the head of the line in the first division in the parade. Union Hose Company will go by New York Central Railroad from Rhinecliff. The companies will return in the evening and parade to their respective headquarters.

DYNAMITE FELL

And Nothing Is Left of Thompson or His Son.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Montreal, June 22.—Aden Thompson, 40, was carrying a box of dynamite. Beside him walked 14 year old Allen Lewis. Suddenly the leather strap by which Thompson carried the box parted, the box fell to the ground.

Within another second not a trace was left of the man, the boy, or the box. All had been blown to atoms. Fragments of human flesh and bone and tiny splinters were found later within a radius of half a mile.

The tragedy occurred at Dixon Corners near Cornwall.

VANDERLIP BACK.

Explains How Jap-American War Will Start.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 22.—Back from an extended stay in Soviet Russia, Washington D. Vanderlip, head of a syndicate of California financiers, predicted today that war between the United States and Japan was inevitable.

Mr. Vanderlip, who arrived on the Olympic, was in Russia inspecting the vast Kamchatka coal, lumber and fisheries grants which his syndicate recently obtained from the Moscow government.

"Russia and China," said Vanderlip, "have entered into a treaty designed to drive the Japanese from the Asiatic coast. An attempt will be made to force the Japs out of Shantung as soon as Russia is able to furnish the Chinese with arms."

That will be very shortly Japan then will establish a formidable blockade of the Chinese and Siberian coasts and it will be up to the United States to go in and break the blockade. That's how the war is going to start."

Alumni Reunion Friday.

Judging from the interest the K. H. S. Alumni are taking in their "Eggs" Friday evening, June 24, it is well guarded statement to say that the committee in charge expects to welcome at least 300 active members, along with some sixty honorary members of the old alumni associations of Kingston and Kingston academies.

Balfour's orchestra of seven pieces has been engaged for the evening and arrangements have also been made to have James Mullen, the trombone wonder of Newburgh, in the orchestra that evening as well as Paul Zucca, whose singing and wizard work on the banjo is so well known in the cities of the Hudson Valley. And last but not least, the alumni will welcome our "Jim" Carey, not on the floor this time, but on the platform with his "Addie."

Home Avoids Crowds.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, June 22.—When Admiral William S. Sims arrived here today he was in muffled. He wore a green hat, a grey suit, blue polka-dotted tie and a low stiff collar. The admiral patronized freight elevators exclusively. At the pier he was whisked down in one from the upper to the lower floor, and at the Pennsylvania station, where he had to wait a half hour for his train, he rode to the upper tier in a freight elevator to evade the crowd eager to catch a glimpse of him. A strong detachment of secret service men guarded the admiral, in addition to 1,000 New York policemen.

RITCHIE LIKES CARP'S CHANCES

(By Tad)

By Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, June 22.—Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion of the world, intends to take the Carpenter end of the betting on July 2.

In an interview with west the other day Willie gave his reasons. He says that he can't figure Dempsey a 3 to 1 shot over a good man like Carpenter, when such boxers as Meehan, Brennan and Miske went the limit with him.

"Dempsey is a good hitter," says Willie, "but when he failed to drop Brennan in the Garden I figured that he had gone back a lot. Brennan couldn't box as Carpenter can, and if Dempsey misses the Frenchman four or five times he is liable to lose confidence. When he loses that he forgets his aggressiveness and is out-pointed or dropped for the count."

"Carpenter is a good, big man. I saw him after I fought Welsh on the other side, and he's as game as a pebble. He'll have to be fattened to lose."

"He has no title to defend, therefore he will not be as worried as Dempsey is bound to be."

"Dempsey's extra weight will handicap him on July 2. If the fight were to a finish I'd say the extra weight would help him. Jeff's extra weight always bothered his opponents. This is a short distance bout and Dempsey will need more speed than weight."

"Carpenter is a good bet at those odds and I'm betting the short end."

COLONIALS SEEK SUNDAY GAMES

The Colonial base ball team of this city has decided to play Sunday games on the road and have all Sundays in July and August open. Dates can be made by addressing Louis Brown, manager, 157 Hasbrouck avenue, Kingston, Saturday they play the undefeated Dunns of Albany on Athletic Field, this city.

CARPENTIER SEES JERSEY ARENA

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Manassas, L. I., June 22.—Paul Journee and Italian Joe Gaus were pretty badly used up in bouts at Ebbett's field Monday night and as a result Georges Carpentier made Tuesday something of a holiday. Today the French challenger was scheduled to take to the road as usual but road work was to be the extent of his training efforts, thanks to a visit to Jersey City to inspect the big arena at Boyle's "thirty acres."

Carpentier was to be the guest of Promoter Tex Rickard, who plans to personally conduct Champion Jack Dempsey to the scene of the big fight later in the week.
